MARIJUANA FIELD FOUND NEAR BECKVILLE

A small crop of marijuana plants valued at $3,100 was found near the streets of Cartersville. The crop of Mary Jane was harvested by a local farmer and was ready for sale.

According to a police report, the marijuana was found in the northwestern part of the county. The police said that the farmer had been growing the crop for personal use.

When agents busted in the farm, they found 400 plants growing in a field. The agents said that the farmer was growing the crop to supply local users.

The police said that the farmer was arrested and charged with growing marijuana.

Immigration lawsuit dismissed in U. S. District Court

JESTER — More allegations of wrongdoing surfaced last week against the Texas Commission on Alcohol and Drug Abuse. Gov. George W. Bush placed the investigation in the hands of a federal court last week. The lawsuit alleged "unlawful detention, use of excessive force, and intentional infliction of pain" on a group of alcoholics and drug addicts.

Michael Welch, one of a board of three commissioners overseeing the commission, and Col. James Wilson, director of the Division of Public Safety, settled after a joint meeting of the House and Senate General Investigating Committees.

'The lawsuit involved more than 50 citizens who claimed they were beaten, starved and subjected to other forms of abuse while in custody.'
