CISD debates attendance policy

By SHERRY KOONCE

CHICO — The Chico Independent School District (CISD) is currently reviewing its attendance policy. The district is considering changes to its current policy, which includes provisions for excused and unexcused absences. The current policy states that students must be present for at least 90% of the school day in order to be considered present. The district is seeking input from parents and students before finalizing any changes.

Divorce law changes include alimony

By SHERRY KOONCE

ALAMEDA COUNTY — California's divorce law changes include provisions for the calculation of alimony payments. The new law, which became effective on [insert date], provides that alimony payments be calculated based on a complex formula that takes into account various factors, including the duration of the marriage, the standard of living during the marriage, and the earning capacities of the parties. The new law is intended to provide a more equitable distribution of assets and liabilities during divorce proceedings.
