Carriage teen awaits kidney transplant

A fourteen-year-old Carriage girl, who is being treated at Children's Hospital, is awaiting a kidney transplant.

Pete May was diagnosed a little girl with kidney disease. His mother, who is working in the hospital, said he will be ready to receive a transplant in three or four years.

Since his diagnosis, Pete has been receiving dialysis treatments three times a week. His parents are praying for a suitable kidney to be found.

Maggie, Pete's older sister, said, "We're just praying and hoping for the best. We've been through a lot as a family and we're just hoping for the best for Pete."

Parker facing questions

Some people are questioning whether or not Parker has any plans for the future.

"I don't know what Parker's plans are for the future," said one person. "He's always been very private about his future plans."

No way to treat a lady

During that first encounter the first impression you had was both of the woman and of the place. When the woman, who was a lady, introduced herself she was wearing a Brooks Brothers suit and a shirt, which would have been the norm for an American gentleman. The place was an office, which was a dictionary definition of a business setting. The woman was standing in front of a large desk, which was typical of an office setting. The setting was such that it was not possible to see the woman's face, which was a common practice in business settings. Allegations outlined against Judge Crawford Parker Jr.

Former District Judge Crawford Parker Jr. faces accusations of judicial misconduct and impairing the administration of justice. The allegations involve alleged improper communications with litigants and their attorneys, and alleged obstruction of justice.

The allegations grew out of Parker's handling of a legal dispute involving a local business. Parker is accused of using his position to influence the outcome of the case in favor of the business, and of retaliating against attorneys who opposed his actions.

As previously disclosed, Judge Parker has denied the allegations. His attorney said Parker fully cooperates with investigations and is confident he will be exonerated.

The allegations raised by the former judge are currently under investigation by the Texas Bar Foundation's standards committee. The committee is responsible for investigating and adjudicating complaints of judicial misconduct.

The investigation will consider evidence, including testimony and documents, and will determine whether Parker violated the rules of professional conduct. The committee will then make a recommendation to the appropriate disciplinary authority, which will make a final determination.

The former judge has remained on the bench throughout the investigation. He has denied the allegations and said he will continue to do so.

The allegations have sparked a controversy in the legal community, with some calling for Parker's removal from the bench.

In response, Parker's attorney said the allegations were baseless and that his client was the target of a politically motivated attack.

The former judge has denied the allegations and said he will continue to do so.

The allegations will continue to be investigated, and the committee will make a recommendation to the appropriate disciplinary authority, which will make a final determination.

Panola adds programs to meet future needs

Panola College offers expanded course offerings and new academic programs among the many exciting projects planned for the year at Panola College.

"The most exciting project is the Health Information Services Technology program, which is designed to meet the demand for health care professionals," said Panola President Bob Sullivan.

Courses in this area will begin this fall, with an enrollment of 125 students. The program will be offered at the Panola College Southeast Campus in Marshall.

"We are pleased to announce the addition of a new program, Family and Consumer Sciences," said Sullivan. "This program will be offered at the Panola College Northwest Campus in Gatesville." The program is designed to prepare students for careers in the family and consumer sciences field.

In addition to the new programs, Panola College is expanding its existing programs to meet the needs of its students. The College is increasing its offerings in the areas of business, technology, and health care.

"We are committed to providing our students with the best possible education," said Sullivan. "By offering a variety of programs, we are able to meet the diverse needs of our student body."

Trustees approve a record budget for 1995-96 year

This year’s budget amounts to approximately $10,000,000 more than last year’s budget. The budget is generated by:

1. State funding, local taxes and tuition.
2. A new endowed fund
3. An increase in revenue from student fees.

The majority of this year’s budget increase is due to an increase in the cost of living and an increase in the cost of supplies.

Sturrock welcomes exes to Panola

TO: Panola College Alumni

FROM: President Sturrock

DATE: February 17, 1996

SUBJECT: Welcome Home

Dear Alumni,

It’s that time again. Meeting old friends you don’t see often and some you haven’t seen since graduation, I have been told that the homecomings in recent years have been quite successful. I encourage you to participate.

This year we are having a more relaxed atmosphere since there are fewer activities to attend if you choose. We have sponsored a student for the luncheon where dwarves are served. Senator Nixon is a more recent grad than I am, but seems to be doing a great job. Perhaps he learned while at Panola.

The event is scheduled to be in the Library – a good place to mingle and visit.

Next year we will begin planning for the 50th Anniversary Homecoming and will include more activities for the anniversary year. Your input is expected and will be valued. Please participate.

Sincerely,

SUBJECT: Welcome Home

Dear Alumni,

It’s that time again. Meeting old friends you don’t see often and some you haven’t seen since graduation, I have been told that the homecomings in recent years have been quite successful. I encourage you to participate.

Musical comedy highlights week

You can get a view of the slightly skewed love of Rectangle this February when the Panola College Drama Department presents Fanny Thigh Heaped on the Way to the Farm: The curtains will rise on the production, one of the many activities scheduled for Homecoming '96, Thursday and Friday, Nov. 14 and 15, at 8 p.m., followed by 200 Mu- sic Auditorium.

Panola College students are not chained to a Roman family scheme to become free. His young master, Hermes, promises freedom if Panola can obtain a beautiful girl, Philia, whom Hermes has seen in his bedroom window. Deceived cunningly by Hermes, a kyngrim character, he marries her with the advantage of being able to use the Roman story; and all is well, as the ending of this comedy unfolds.

The Latin playwright Plautus was the innovation for the author, Rust Shively and Larry Gellert. The top-down story situations that kept the Romans laughing once again prove that good comedy is classic.

Music and lyrics are by Stephen Hodes.

Directed by Panola College Theatre Instructor Elizabeth Hedges, the cast included 11 men and seven women.

Cast members include: Nathan Crayton as Hermes, Stant Kendivial as Panola, and Gini Sef Rogers as Philia.

Chad Jeffrey, Dylan Sepe and Richard Steier are the Proteans, Chris Dickson as Senex, Karl Spencer as Dominius and Thomas Poy on as Tarsus.

Also, Jeremy Jones as Lucius, Dana Newell as Silvia, and Melissa Hudson, Sheryl and Charles as the Servants, and Walley Meyer as Vettius.

And, Debra Scott as Gynecia, Amon Evans as Eunuch, and DeWayne Semos as Miles Gloriosus.

The piece is a production of the Panola College Drama Department with assistance from the Panola Theatre Group.
