Commissioners vote to modify L-P tax abatement agreement

Panda County Commissioners agreed Monday to modify a tax abatement agreement with L-P Industries to allow the company to stop making improvements at its plant, which is located near the county line.

The original agreement between L-P and Panda County in 1994 included a clause that required the company to make improvements at its plant. The clause was modified in 2012 to allow L-P to stop making improvements at the plant.

The commissioners voted 3-2 to modify the agreement, with Commissioners Charles Simpson and John Johnson voting in favor and Commissioners Bill Tipton and David Craig voting against.

The new agreement allows L-P to stop making improvements at the plant, which is located near the county line. The commissioners voted 3-2 to modify the agreement, with Commissioners Charles Simpson and John Johnson voting in favor and Commissioners Bill Tipton and David Craig voting against.

In addition to the crucial point, Washington moved to the center to make the point that the agreement is about putting in place a new tax base in the Panda County area.

Final action pending against school bus driver charged with shoplifting

Two persons were denounced in Panda County this week and are facing felony charges after they were caught shoplifting.

The incident occurred at the Panda County Jail, where a female inmate was caught shoplifting.

Based on the suspect's information, Washington called for the assistance of Panda County Sheriff's Lt. Chas Lanier and the jailer, who gave the suspect a ride to a Washington, where she was booked into jail.

During the search, Washington and Lanier found that the jailer's car was missing.

In addition to the crucial point, Washington moved to the center to make the point that the agreement is about putting in place a new tax base in the Panda County area.

Tuesday reception planned for Parker

The day and accomplishments of retiring county court-at-law judge Clifford Parker Jr. will be celebrated at a special reception on Thursday, March 29, at 6 p.m. at the Panda County Courthouse.

Parker announced his retirement to county commissioners on Jan. 29, citing the increasing concerns of his health and family as the main reasons.

The reception will begin at 5 p.m. and continue until 6 p.m. Parker will retire from his post after more than 30 years of service.

Parker's name will be engraved on the reception dinner plaque, and a plaque will be presented to him.

Parker has served the county for 30 years and has been a dedicated public servant.

Parties offer varied philosophies

The debate on the tax abatement agreement came to a head Monday night, with both the county and L-P Industries presenting their views.

The county argued that the agreement was necessary to attract new businesses to Panda County, while L-P Industries argued that the agreement was outdated and needed to be updated.

The commissioners voted 3-2 to modify the agreement, with Commissioners Charles Simpson and John Johnson voting in favor and Commissioners Bill Tipton and David Craig voting against.

In addition to the crucial point, Washington moved to the center to make the point that the agreement is about putting in place a new tax base in the Panda County area.

Law Enforcement: The Role of the Policeman

Law enforcement officers are often seen as the first responders in times of crisis. They are responsible for maintaining public safety and ensuring the rule of law. In this article, we take a closer look at the challenges faced by law enforcement officers in their daily duties.

We make a run to Deering. The usual route from the police station to the office building is clear, but the traffic is heavy. We need to make sure that we are visible and that we are following the rules of the road. The officer in the lead car takes the route that is used by other vehicles, while the officer in the rear car monitors the traffic.

A few miles later, we reach the scene of the crime. The suspect has been identified and is on the run. We move into position and begin our search.

The search continues for several hours, with the officers moving through the streets and neighborhoods of the city. The suspect is finally located and arrested.

This article highlights the importance of law enforcement officers in maintaining public safety and ensuring the rule of law. It also serves as a reminder of the challenges faced by these officers in their daily duties.

Very truly yours,

Tony Branca

WASHINGTON - The Senate has voted to turn a double play on a Congressional bill to tighten controls on offshore drilling, ending a political showdown that had drawn conclude a long-running battle over the measure's fate.

The Senate had voted late last session to approve the bill, but the House of Representatives has not acted on it, leading to speculation that the bill could be blocked by the House.

The House had not yet voted to pass the bill, and the Senate was expected to act soon, according to sources.

The bill was introduced in the House last year, and the Senate has considered it several times since then.

The measure would close loopholes in the country's offshore drilling laws and prohibit new drilling in the Gulf of Mexico.

The bill has been controversial, with some lawmakers arguing it would harm the energy industry and others saying it would protect the environment.

The Senate had previously voted to pass the bill, and the House has said it would consider it in the future.

The Senate's action on the bill was expected to give it a chance to pass in the House.

The Senate has been led by a group of lawmakers who have vowed to push the bill through Congress, and the House has also been expected to support it.

The bill is expected to have a strong chance of passing in the Senate, and it is likely to be considered in the House in the coming weeks.

The bill would give the president authority to ban new drilling in the Gulf of Mexico for 10 years, and it would also require new drilling platforms to be built with higher safety standards.

SPECIAL TO THE TIMES-NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Nichols Jr. of New Mexico are the parents of Susan Glynn, a 19-year-old general services technician for the Animas Valley Water and Sanitation District in Durango. Ms. Glynn is a third generation Animas Valley Water and Sanitation District employee.

Ms. Glynn is engaged to be married on October 12th, 2019, in Durango, Colorado. The couple plans to return to New Mexico for their honeymoon.

In preparation for their wedding, Ms. Glynn has been working on various projects for the Animas Valley Water and Sanitation District, including the installation of new water line connections and the repair of existing water lines in the community.

The couple plans to reside in Durango after their wedding and will continue to work at the Animas Valley Water and Sanitation District.

The wedding will feature traditional New Mexican and Durango-based cuisine, as well as a live Mariachi band and a traditional Pueblo wedding ceremony.

The couple and their families look forward to sharing this special occasion with their friends and family from both New Mexico and Colorado.
