BISD Superintendent John Booth led a Town Hall Meeting Monday to answer questions posed by the more than 60 persons attending. Although most interest centered around school trophies that had been on display, the meeting ran two and one-half hours in the high school. Booth also fielded questions concerning the school's budget and property taxes.

Just works into his first year as superintendent of the BISD, startup Director David, John Booth, has forged ahead in attempts to discuss concerns city residents had heard about during the past weeks. The BISD, one of the state's largest, has a history of being in the news, and the school system is under pressure to improve its performance. The school district has been criticized for its high dropout rate and low graduation rate.

The meeting was held in the high school's main auditorium, and the crowd included parents, students, and community members. Booth addressed issues such as the future of the school district, the need for more funding, and the impact of the state budget crisis on local education. The audience was engaged and asked thoughtful questions, reflecting the community's commitment to improving the educational system. Booth promised to continue working hard to address the concerns raised and to work towards a better future for all students.

Hospital board to discuss employee pension plan at Thursday meeting

The Scranton hospital board will meet Thursday night to discuss a proposed pension plan for hospital employees. The meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in the hospital's conference room.

The board will consider the plan, which is being developed in response to state regulations that require hospitals to offer a pension plan to all employees. The plan would provide a defined benefit pension, which means that the amount of retirement income an employee receives is based on a formula that includes the employee's salary and years of service.

The proposal includes a match of up to 5 percent of an employee's salary, which would be available immediately. The plan also includes a vesting clause, which means that employees would be entitled to their contributions if they leave the hospital before reaching retirement age.

The board will consider the plan and vote on whether to adopt it at the meeting. The decision will be announced at the conclusion of the meeting.
