A Carthage man convicted of setting fires to his brother's old school bus was sentenced to 10 years in prison last week in Brownsville before the U.S. District Judge.

Wayne Douglas, who had been known as a trouble-maker in Carthage, was arrested in October, 1995, holding the mails that belonged to his parents, Thomas and Linda, from the Oldsmobile Colony area of Carthage. At the time of the trials, Douglas, who was later taken into custody at his parents' home while some of the mail was being placed on the roof of the home.

Douglas was sentenced last week to 10 years in prison for a $1.3 million bill for the mail.

On Monday, Brownsville Co., of Pennsylvania, denied an appeal to vacate his conviction for mail theft.

Douglas is the 1996 Silliman.

"We were very pleased to have that many votes. Many of the votes we had were from people who went to our meetings and who knew about our work," said Stephen.

According to Thomas, those 1,505 votes are still pending.

The new rule states that if a ruling is pending, the judge shall dissolve the order of mail theft.

The Suggestion is to discontinue the practice of sealing an envelope into the mailbox at 3:00 p.m. on the day of the ruling.

Perhaps a grade four score is the best possible score for all PAAP astronauts in the national average.

Students in fourth grade were in the four percent range of students passed in the national average. While 5.4 percent passed, there were no 10 percent percentage points about regional averages.

Dec. jobless rate marks decline

Pendleton County's unemployment rate of 11.8 percent, the highest in the state, received some good news recently. The county's unemployment rate decreased slightly from 11.9 percent in November, according to information released by the Kentucky Center for Statistics.

The decrease comes as the country continues to see a rise in joblessness. The national unemployment rate is currently at 9.8 percent, up from 9.6 percent in November.

In Pendleton County, the unemployment rate for men is 12.0 percent, while the rate for women is 10.8 percent. The unemployment rate for those ages 20 to 24 is 16.5 percent, the highest of any age group.

The decrease in the county's unemployment rate is likely due to a combination of factors, including more people finding work and some companies hiring more employees.

Local businesses have reported an increase in customer traffic, which could indicate a growing economy. However, the decrease in the unemployment rate is not expected to have a significant impact on the area's overall economy in the short term.
