Carthage still bidding for parolee, detainee facility

The list of sites, vying for the construction of a federal detention center in Carthage, continues to grow. The hopes for the facility's approval are high, but Carthage's water is still among those considered possible sites for the facility. The City's water is still among those considered possible sites for the facility.

Juniors arrested in burglary

Four Dallas still have been arrested as part of the group of four boys who are believed to have committed the burglary. According to Police Captain Robert W. Martin, the group was involved in a burglary in the area near the 1000 block of Oak Street. They were arrested after a brief struggle with police officers.

According to the statement, the group of four boys entered the home and began ransacking the house. They then fled the scene before police arrived on the scene. The victims, who were not at home at the time of the burglary, were not injured.

The group of four boys, all aged 17 or older, are being held at the Dallas County Jail. The investigation is ongoing, and additional charges may be filed as more information becomes available.

Environmental quality incentive program available in Texas

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) is offering an Environmental Quality Incentive Program (EQIP) to help farmers and ranchers reduce environmental impacts of their land.

The program is open to all producers who want to improve the water quality of their land. Producers can choose from a variety of practices such as land management, water quality protection, and wildlife habitat improvement. These practices help protect water quality, improve soil health, and enhance biodiversity.

To learn more about the program and how to apply, visit the USDA-NRCS website or contact your local USDA-NRCS office. Applications will be accepted until September 30, 2017.
