Nixon to request East Texas jail

As a 190-day jail term would render Richard Nixon practically irremovable, his friends are urging him to accept a request from the Texas prison officials to complete his term in prison in lieu of the 190-day suspension.

In the event of granting the request, the president's login, Millicent, plans are in the making to ensure that Nixon will be released from jail each day to work on his book. This would allow Nixon to continue his writing while maintaining his public persona.

Nixon, who is currently serving a 190-day jail sentence for his role in the Watergate scandal, has been urged by his friends to complete his term in prison. This is being done to prevent the president from being unable to fulfill his term.

PGH lease nearing completion

Negotiations for the lease of Panola General Hospital are in the final stages and are expected to be finalized soon. The hospital has been looking for a lease for several months and has finally reached an agreement with the PGH leasing company.

According to County Judge Jethro Christian, the hospital has been in the process of finding a new lease for several months. The hospital has been working with the PGH leasing company to find the best possible deal for the lease.

The negotiations have been ongoing for several weeks, and the hospital and the PGH leasing company have reached an agreement that is satisfactory to both parties.

The lease will be for a period of ten years, and the hospital will be responsible for all maintenance and operational costs. The lease agreement includes provisions for the hospital to purchase the property at the end of the lease term.

National Yearbook Week noted

Carthage High School recognized National Yearbook Week with a special event. The week is celebrated by schools across the country to raise awareness about the importance of yearbooks.

The school's yearbook, which is published every year, features photos, stories, and quotes from students, teachers, and staff. The yearbook is a valuable resource for students, alumni, and community members.

The school's yearbook committee worked hard to make this year's edition the best yet. The committee members put in many hours of work to ensure that the yearbook is a high-quality product that will be treasured for years to come.

The yearbook committee is made up of students, faculty, and staff members who are passionate about creating a memorable keepsake for the school community.

Extended calling goes to vote

Carthage telephone customers will have the opportunity to vote for a new rate plan. The vote will take place during National Yearbook Week, scheduled for the week of October 9th. The vote will be held at the school during lunchtime.

Customers will be able to choose from two rate plans: Plan A and Plan B. Plan A offers lower rates for long-distance calls, while Plan B offers lower rates for local calls.

Those who wish to participate in the vote are encouraged to log in to the school's website and fill out the online survey. The survey will be available for a limited time, so customers are urged to participate as soon as possible.

Customers are encouraged to vote for the rate plan that best meets their needs. The results of the vote will be announced on the school's website and in the next issue of the yearbook.

THE UPS AND DOWNS OF LIFE

Everybody has ups and downs in their life, and the way we respond to them is a reflection of our personality and faith in God. I once heard it said that, "It is nice to be on the mountaintop, but it is in the valleys with the simple grind that we become real believers." We usually do not grow much when we are on the mountaintop, and everything is trouble-free and good. It is when we are in the valleys, and things are not going well, that we must depend on our loving God and have faith that things will work out for the best. It is difficult to understand how troubles and afflictions can be a blessing, but God's desire is for us to love and trust Him. Our time spent on earth is a learning process and is relatively short compared with spending eternity in heaven. Things are, constantly changing, and we will always be confronted with life's ups and downs. The good news is, that in heaven there are no "downs," so for those who believe Jesus as their Savior, their souls will live forever with God on the mountaintop.
Three interceptions, two fumble recoveries give Carthage fourth win

Jvs' defense stifling in 36-8 win over Cats
