Trick-or-treating safety tips offered

Halloween can be a fun, yet dangerous time of the year for children. Parents and guardians should be aware of the potential dangers and take steps to ensure their children's safety.

1. Watch for Traffic: Halloween is a busy time for trick-or-treating, especially in areas with heavy traffic. Parents should always accompany their children to the door and make sure they are safely crossing the street.

2. Choose Bright Costumes: Make sure your child's costume is visible and easy to see. Consider adding reflective tape or light-up features to their outfit.

3. Stay in Groups: It's safer for children to trick-or-treat in groups. This way, they can stick together and watch out for each other.

4. Avoid Trick-or-Treating After Dark: While some areas may have less traffic in the evening, it's still not the safest time to go door-to-door. Try to plan your trick-or-treating for early evening.

5. Know the Rules: Be sure to explain to your child what is and isn't acceptable behavior. Teach them to say thank you and to only take treats from doors.

6. Have a Plan: Before heading out, make a plan with your child. Decide on a specific route they'll take and a time to return home.

7. Watch for Pedestrians: Be aware of children in costume and avoid running into them or accidentally spooking them.

8. Stay Hydrated: Trick-or-treating can be a lot of fun, but it's important to stay hydrated. Make sure you have plenty of water and, if possible, some healthy snacks.

9. Be Prepared: In case of an emergency, make sure your child knows your contact information and has a backup plan in case they can't find their way back home.

10. Check the Candy: If you allow your child to eat candy, make sure you check the labels for any allergens or potential hazards. If in doubt, throw it out.

By following these safety tips, you can help ensure a fun and safe Halloween for your child.
Early voting ends Friday

By Vernon Rowe

Early voting for the November 3 election ends Friday. Those who have not yet cast their ballots are urged to do so today.

The county continues to experience a significant increase in the number of people voting, with the majority of the increase coming from early voting. According to the county's Elections office, over 10,000 people have voted early this year, compared to just over 5,000 in the spring.

"We're seeing a lot of people coming out and voting, especially during the school holidays," said elections manager John Williams. "It's great to see so many people participating in the democratic process."

Voters can cast their ballots at several locations throughout the county, including the county courthouse, the library, and several community centers. Early voting will continue through November 2.

"I encourage everyone to take advantage of early voting," said Williams. "It's a great way to make sure your voice is heard and to avoid long lines on election day."

Early voting is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily, and voters are encouraged to bring their photo identification to the polling location.

For more information on early voting, visit the county's Elections website or call the Elections office at (555) 123-4567.

No Hope In Dope

"No Hope in Dope." Or should it read "No Hope For Dope."? The nebulous concept of drug abuse is one of the most perplexing and challenging problems facing society today. The use of drugs, especially narcotics, has become a serious threat to individual and public health. The battle against drug addiction is a constant struggle that requires education, prevention, and treatment. The slogan "No Hope in Dope" is a call to action, reminding us of the need to educate ourselves and others about the dangers of drug use. It serves as a reminder that the road to recovery is possible with the right support and guidance. The slogan "No Hope For Dope" might be interpreted as a more pessimistic view, suggesting that there is little hope for those trapped in addiction without intervention. However, both slogans emphasize the importance of addressing the issue and working towards a solution.

New lot expands courthouse parking

Parking problems faced by patrons visiting the Palm Beach County Courthouse have been alleviated with the opening of a new lot that provides easier access to the courthouse.

Located across the street from the main entrance of the courthouse, the lot is designed to accommodate over 200 cars, including those of courthouse employees. The lot provides convenient parking for visitors, eliminating the need to search for a spot on the streets or in the downtown area.

As part of the expansion, the courthouse parking garage will be vacated and converted into additional office space for courthouse staff. This will help to alleviate the overcrowded conditions that have been a concern for years.

In addition to the new parking lot, the courthouse has implemented a new ticketing system to improve traffic flow and reduce congestion. Visitors are encouraged to use the new parking lot to avoid the hassle of searching for a spot on the streets.
