BISD expansion plans back to square one

Monday’s meeting of the School Board of Trustees, after 90 minutes of discussion, failed to reach a decision on the proposed $7.5 million expansion plan for the junior high school. The trustees were unable to agree on the best course of action.

The board considered two main options: a three-story expansion or a one-story addition.

As the final agenda item, board members unanimously voted to direct Wanda Driggers to continue negotiations with the architect and to present a recommendation at the next meeting.

During executive session, board members considered personnel issues, including the promotion of Assistant Principal Mr. Jones.

TU’s road closure plan meets resistance

By Teresa Cagle

The Panola Watchman

TU’s road closure plan has met resistance from the local community, with many residents opposing the idea. The university plans to close a portion of the road to facilitate repairs on the bridge.

On the road in question, there are several large cracks and uneven surfaces that have been causing safety issues for both students and faculty.

In an attempt to promote TU’s green initiatives, students were asked to bring their bags and make their site electric. They were told to use the tools to repair the cracks and make their site more electric.

County Judge John Corbin is praying for the situation to improve. "Just lost a man, I mean," he said, "and I can’t afford to lose any more. I just can’t afford to lose any more."

At the time of the incident, Sheriff Simmons was present at the scene. The sheriff said that the situation was under control, and no one was injured.

County Agent's Report

More fruit trees, including peaches, plums, apricots, and nectarines, are being planted by farmers and individuals as backyard orchards. This year, the county agent has provided assistance to over 500 people who have planted fruit trees. A variety of workshops and demonstrations are being offered to help growers care for their trees and to improve their yields.
