A scene of a child's favorite book, The Little Prince, proved to be a good theme for a free art survey by Mrs. Pamela Sisson at Canfield Elementary on Monday, Dec. 16. The children were given the theme of "The Little Prince" and a book, and they had to create a picture that showed their interpretation of the story. The art survey was part of the enrichment program and was sponsored by PTA. The children had a chance to learn about art and to express their creativity through their artwork.

Composting video offered

SPEAKERS FOR THE CATSKILL CRAFTS festival, set for Oct. 10 at the Leggett-Blake Library in the Catskill Village, will include a presentation on composting green waste.

The video presentation will be held in the library's small meeting room, where participants can learn about the benefits of composting and how to create a composting system. Attendees will also have the opportunity to ask questions and share their experiences with composting.

Participants can bring their own green waste, such as food scraps, leaves, and yard trimmings, to create their own compost. Composting is an eco-friendly way to reduce waste and improve soil quality.

The competition, held at the local library, featured several rounds of spelling challenges. Participants were given a list of words to spell, and the first person to spell them correctly advances to the next round.

The competition was open to students of all ages, and the winner was crowned the spelling champion.
