State's tax plan draws mixed comments

A coalition of citizens opposing the state tax plan, won in its opening round by a vote of 34-23 in the House of Representatives, has won an appeal to the Senate, where a similar proposal was defeated last week. The coalition's victory was based on the claim that the tax plan is unfair to low-income families and will lead to higher taxes for all Texans. The coalition, led by the Texas Taxpayers Network, has vowed to continue its fight against the tax plan, which would increase the state sales tax from 5% to 6.25%.

City falls behind on street work

Weather, money, equipment major problems

If you think the City of Gonzales is falling behind on street work, you're not alone. According to a recent report, the city's street department has been struggling to keep up with the demands of the job. Mayor Charles Tharp is expected to address the issue at the city council meeting on Monday night. The city council has already approved a $1 million budget for street improvements, but some residents are concerned that it may not be enough. "We need to do more," said one resident. "The streets are in bad shape and we need to fix them." Tharp said the city is considering other funding options, such as grants and loans, to help pay for the needed improvements.

Governor's trimming nicks PJC

Hopes dim for Marshall campus

The governor's budget, which was recently released, has caused concern among those concerned about the future of the PJC and its sister school, the Marshall University. The budget cuts have resulted in a reduction of funding for both schools, with the PJC facing the brunt of the cuts. The cuts have caused concern among students and faculty, who fear that the cuts could harm the quality of education and the future of the schools. Governor Greg Abbott has defended the cuts, saying that they are necessary to balance the state budget.

Looking for parts

City pool still not open

The city of Gonzales is still looking for parts to fix the city pool, which has been closed for more than six months. "We've been trying to get the pool open for a long time," said one city official. "We've been told that the city pool is still not up and running." The pool has been closed due to a lack of funds and the need for repairs. The city has been trying to find the money to fix the pool, but so far, it has been unsuccessful.

This Week

Local sales taxes up

Local sales taxes have increased in Gonzales, according to recent reports. The increase is due to an increase in the state sales tax, which has led to a higher overall sales tax rate. The increase has caused concern among some residents, who fear that it will lead to higher prices and a decrease in their purchasing power. However, some residents are happy with the increase, saying that it will help to fund important city projects. Despite the increase, the city has been able to keep its budget within the state's guidelines.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY—A group of students who attended Tuesday’s story hour at the Carthage public library will have a little extra special Scrubbing this week. The story hour fell on the same day as the birthday of their teacher, Pauline Lloyd, so one of the students who came to the library with her decided to celebrate her birthday in her honor. The students brought her flowers and a birthday card, and the librarian arranged for her to have a special story hour that day. Pauline Lloyd is a well-loved and respected teacher who has dedicated many years to helping children grow and learn. The students are grateful for her guidance and support, and they wanted to make her birthday extra special. Pauline Lloyd is known for her warm and welcoming personality, and her students always look forward to her story hours. She is a beloved member of the community, and her birthday celebration was a fitting way to show her appreciation. The students were happy to be part of the celebration, and they enjoyed hearing stories and having fun with their teacher. Pauline Lloyd is grateful for the love and support of her students, and she is looking forward to many more years of sharing stories and learning together. She plans to continue her work as a teacher and mentor, and she is excited to see where the future will take her and her students. The story hour on Pauline Lloyd’s birthday was a special occasion, and it was a reminder of the impact that good teachers can have on the lives of their students. Pauline Lloyd is a truly special person, and she is loved and respected by all who know her. The students were happy to be part of her birthday celebration, and they are grateful to have such a wonderful teacher in their lives.
