Sports Briefs

- Cowboys unhappy
  - The Dallas Cowboys were not happy with the call on fourth down when quarterback Steve Young was sacked instead of being allowed to throw the ball. Head Coach Tom Landry said, "If they call that a sack, I don't think I'll ever coach in the NFL again."

- Oilers, too
  - The Houston Oilers were also unhappy with the call on fourth down. Coach Bum Phillips said, "I don't think anyone in the NFL has ever called a sack."

- Knight arrest ordered
  - Former NFL coach Don Shula was arrested for driving under the influence in Miami. He is scheduled to appear in court next week.

- New fish standard set
  - The NFL has set a new standard for fish consumption during the season. The standard is based on the number of fish consumed by the average player in a game.

- B A A A round up
  - The Houston Texans have rounded up their team for a practice session.

Gladewater steals district show

A Gladewater player scored two touchdowns in the final minutes of the game to win the district championship.

Sleeping Giant area available to public

After 11 years of negotiations, the Sleeping Giant area is now available to the public. The area, which is a popular hiking destination, has been closed to the public due to issues with water and wildlife conservation.

1979 Fearless Forecasters

- Bob's Super Handy
  - The 1979 Fearless Forecasters were not impressed with Bob's predictions. "He's always predicting the same thing, and it never happens," said the group.

- The Penalty Meter
  - "I can't believe he's predicting a penalty," said another member of the group. "He's never been right before."
