Saturday is election day in county

Voters throughout Panola County will go to the polls Saturday to decide a number of city and school positions as well as to select three members of the Panola County Fresh Water Service District.

Carrabelle, Beckville, Union and Glady will all be holding both school and city elections, and Elsberry voters will hold both city and school elections.

Across the county there are some 14,691 voters eligible to cast ballots in the various elections. Voters are reminded to have their Voter Registration Certificates with them when they go to the polls. Polls will open at 7 a.m. and close at 7 p.m. on Saturday.

An election day survey shows some candidates seeking office across the county; however, the number of candidates in some races has varied from race to race, but its general has been steadily increasing.

Cities set cleanup efforts in April

Both Carrabelle and Beckville are in the midst of cleanup efforts with Mayor Lee L. Anderson leading the way.

A cleanup day in Carrabelle was Saturday, and Beckville is planning to have a cleanup day in April.

Beckville has been involved in a community-wide beauty contest. The city has been divided into sections with sectional supervisors appointed to direct the work in each area.

Elections in both cities will be held today. In Carrabelle, the election will be conducted at the city hall, and in Beckville, the election will be held at the Beckville City Council building.

In Carrabelle, the election will be held on the courthouse lawn. The city has been divided into sections, and each section will be responsible for cleaning its area.

In Beckville, the election will be held in the city hall.

An Editorial

Each vote really does count

Saturday is election day in Panola County and it's impossible to say how important it is for every voter to turn out at the polls.

With city and school positions on the ballot across the county, the victory of future election candidates can be influenced by the vote in each city.

It's easy for all the voters to sit at home and watch the proceedings, but the candidates are on the ballot and the voters cannot be ignored.

If everyone speaks up in the voting booth, perhaps there will be less to be said at the polls.

When a bond issue comes to a vote, the outcome is decided by the number of votes cast. The people's participation in the election is crucial to the success or failure of such a proposal.

Voters should remember that their votes are important, and that each vote counts. It's easy to take democracy for granted, but the elections are only possible because of the hard work and dedication of the volunteers who make our democratic process work.

They deserve our respect and our support, and we should do our part to make sure that every vote is counted.

Assassination try shows illness

The unexpected assassination of President Kennedy in Dallas, Texas, last week is a shock to the nation and the world. The news hit the nation like a bolt of lightning, with people in shock and disbelief. The President was on his way to an important conference when the tragedy struck. The assassin, Lee Harvey Oswald, was arrested shortly after the shooting.

It is truly a sad day for the nation when we lose a President in this manner. The President was a visionary leader who was determined to bring the country together. He was a man of peace and he believed in the power of unity.

The news of the assassination caused a national outburst of emotion. People across the country were shocked and saddened. The President was a celebrated figure, and his death has left a void in our hearts.

The nation is in mourning, and we must come together to support each other. We must remember the President's legacy and work towards a better future for our country.

Sensing The News

Deficit spending push is on

President Johnson is under pressure to act on the nation's fiscal crisis. The President is considering a new, larger deficit spending program to help balance the budget.

Deficit spending is a controversial issue, and there are concerns about its long-term effects. However, the President believes that it is necessary to take action to address the nation's financial problems.

The deficit spending program is expected to include a range of measures, including tax cuts, increased spending on infrastructure, and other initiatives. The President has been working on this proposal for some time, and he is expected to announce it soon.

Regulatory wheel spinning

Historians are scrapping the old, circular motion system of inquiry that is still in place in the nation's courts. The Supreme Court has approved a new, more efficient system of inquiry.

The new system is expected to streamline the process of inquiry, and reduce the amount of time it takes to resolve cases. The Supreme Court has been working on this proposal for some time, and it is expected to be implemented soon.

Texas Treats

by Doris W. House

H muh, but I see only the vision of an open cupboard and a bright light from a stove. These are the two things that immediately come to mind when I think of Texas treats. Of course, there are many other things that come to mind as well, like the warm and friendly people of Texas, the delicious food, and the beautiful landscapes. But for me, the cupboard and the stove are what really make Texas treats what they are.

Gardener's earn awards

As the weather warms up, many gardeners are preparing for a new season of growing. The Gardening Department of the Texas A&M AgriLife Research and Extension Center in College Station recently held its annual plant sale, where gardeners could purchase a variety of plants and seeds. Among the winners of the award were:

- John Smith, who won first place for his horticultural expertise and dedication to the art of gardening.
- Jane Doe, who won second place for her creative use of space and careful planning in her garden.
- Richard Roe, who won third place for his ability to grow rare and unusual plants.

The Gardening Department is looking forward to another successful season, and encourages all gardeners to get involved and share their love of nature.

Author's note: The Gardening Department is a division of the Texas A&M AgriLife Research and Extension Center, and is dedicated to providing resources and support for gardeners in the state.
