The barn made a fine playhouse

Children will, I suppose, always be the same. They all think they are the world’s greatest actors, that they can do anything and are not afraid to try it. I remember when we were children and the barn made a fine playhouse. We used to hide in it and play the most wonderful games. Our imaginations ran wild and we could create anything we wanted to.

There were usually a couple of our friends who would come and play with us. They would bring their own costumes and make-up. We would dress as royalty, pirates, cowboys, and even aliens. Our costumes were made from whatever we could find around the barn. We would cut out paper and use it to make masks or use old blankets and sheets as our outfits.

The barn was always warm and cozy, and we would spend hours there. Sometimes we would just sit and talk, other times we would act out a play. We were always surrounded by our own imagination and could make anything happen.

My dad used to say that our playtime was like a movie. We would be so lost in our own imagination that we would forget the world around us. He said that our playtime was a valuable time for us to learn and grow.

Our playtime had a great influence on us. It helped us to develop our creativity and imagination. It also helped us to socialize and make friends. It was a time for us to be free and express ourselves.

I am thankful that we had such a wonderful playhouse when we were children. It gave us a chance to be free and enjoy ourselves without any restrictions. It helped us to develop our imaginations and learn valuable lessons.

A better way

By Vic Parker

A lot of folks no doubt felt that the football season had started last weekend with the first game. It was a great way to start the season, but the real football season starts with this weekend's game.

The issue here is not whether the game is good or bad, but whether the game is played the way it should be. If there isn't enough time to do what you want, then you aren't going to do it.

Let's take a look at what happened in the first game. There were a lot of players who didn't know how to play the game. They didn't know how to tackle, how to block, or how to run.

It's not that the game is bad. It's that the players don't know how to play the game. They need to learn how to play the game before they can go out and play.

The best way to do that is to practice, practice, practice. That's what the coaches are for. They are there to teach the players how to play the game.

Reynolds reflects on '81 Bulldog grid season

By STILLMAN BÄHR

Newsmaker Sports Editor

This past season was truly a year to remember for the Carthage Bulldog football team. The team, under the leadership of Coach Jimmy Reynolds, achieved unprecedented success by reaching the state playoffs.

The Bulldogs finished the regular season with a perfect 12-0 record, securing the District 21-AA championship. This achievement marked the first time in school history that Carthage had gone undefeated in a single season.

During the playoffs, the Bulldogs faced tough opposition in the state tournament. In the first round, they defeated the rival Elkhart Eagles to advance to the regional semifinals. In the semifinal match, they faced the powerful Van Horn High School Mustangs, who were considered to be the favorites.

The Bulldogs battled against the Mustangs with tenacity and determination, ultimately emerging victorious with a stunning upset. This win set them up for the state championship game against the mighty Edinburg High School Ladybirds.

In the championship game, the Bulldogs demonstrated their resilience and skill. Despite a strong start by the Ladybirds, Carthage managed to hold their ground and maintain the lead throughout the game. In the end, they emerged victorious with a hard-fought win, securing their place in the state history books.

This championship season was the culmination of years of hard work, dedication, and teamwork by the players, coaches, and support staff. It was a season that will be remembered for years to come as a testament to the strength and spirit of the Carthage Bulldog football team.
