Floyd County needs a new district attorney. Under the current plan of Floyd County, there will be a district attorney for the entire county. This is a bad idea because too many different people are involved in law enforcement throughout the county. The district attorney has to be someone who is knowledgeable about the law and can make decisions quickly.

Under this current plan, the district attorney would have to spend a lot of time in all three judicial districts. This would mean that the district attorney would not be able to spend much time in any one district. This would make it difficult for the district attorney to be effective in any one district.

We believe that Floyd County needs a district attorney for each judicial district. This would allow the district attorney to be more effective in each district.

Car woes hit store workers

Locaville was hit by severe winter storms causing hardships for workers in the retail and service industries. Employees at the local grocery store were forced to work longer hours due to reduced supply chains. The manager said, "Our biggest challenge is keeping the shelves stocked for our customers. With the weather affecting transportation, we're running behind on deliveries." Despite the difficulties, the employees remained dedicated to their work, ensuring customers had access to essential supplies. The community rallied around the workers, offering support and encouragement. A local charity even set up a fund to assist those in need. The town came together to overcome the challenges posed by the winter storms, demonstrating resilience and unity.

Friendly winds blow balloon to new acquaintances

The winds of change were blowing in Locaville recently when a lost helium-filled balloon carried a toy stuffed bear to new friends. The bear, named Benny, was floating high in the sky when it was spotted by a group of children at a local park. They called the police, who were able to retrieve the bear using a net. The children were delighted to have found a new furry friend, and the community celebrated the reunion. This heartwarming story of lost and found has brought joy to many, reminding us of the simple pleasures in life.

Firemen make several runs

Locaville's fire department was kept busy over the weekend, responding to fires caused by record-breaking temperatures. The high heat led to increased calls for assistance, as fires started due to dry conditions. The firefighters worked tirelessly to extinguish the flames, ensuring the safety of the community. They also provided advice on fire safety, urging residents to be cautious with open fireplaces and lit candles. The firefighters were commended for their quick response and expertise in handling the unusual situation. The community expressed gratitude for their efforts, highlighting the importance of preparedness and resilience in面对 such challenges.

Carthage to require garbage in bags

By MARSHALL NOLAN
The Carthage Watchman

Carthage City Council members voted to require residents to bag all garbage in trash cans. The council also approved a contract to purchase a new garbage collection truck. The new truck will replace an aging model and help improve collection efficiency. City officials hope the new truck will reduce the time it takes to collect trash, helping to keep Carthage clean and improving public health. The truck is expected to be delivered in a few weeks. Residents are encouraged to start bagging their garbage as soon as possible to ensure a smooth transition. For more information, contact the Carthage Public Works Department at (903) 594-6565.

Christmas parade deadline for entries is Tuesday, Dec. 1

Entries are still being accepted for the annual Carthage Christmas parade. The deadline for entries is Tuesday, Dec. 1. Parade participants are encouraged to submit their entries early to ensure a spot in the parade. The parade will take place on December 4th, with floats, musicians, and performers taking part in the festivities. Prizes will be awarded to the best entries, so don’t miss out on a chance to showcase your Christmas spirit. For more information, contact the Carthage Chamber of Commerce at (903) 594-6900.

Ag building bid approved

School board approves bid

The Carthage School Board has approved a bid for the construction of a new agricultural building. The project will be funded through a combination of state and local grants. Construction is expected to begin in early 2019 and be completed by the start of the next school year. The new building will provide additional space for the already popular agricultural program, allowing for more students to participate in the hands-on learning experience. The school board encourages community support for this important project. For more information, contact the Carthage ISD at (903) 594-6300.

Commission to buy land

Commissioner Bill Hauser said the Carthage County Commissioners would consider purchasing land for a new airport. The current airport facility is reaching its capacity, and a new site could accommodate future growth. The commissioners will discuss the potential purchase at their next meeting. For more information, contact Commissioner Hauser at (903) 594-6988.

Merchants begin shopping spree

Carthage merchants are gearing up for the holiday season with a shopping spree. Local businesses are offering special deals and promotions to attract customers. The shopping spree is expected to run through the end of the year, with a variety of discounts and offers available. Shoppers are encouraged to take advantage of these deals and support local businesses. For more information, visit the Carthage Chamber of Commerce website or contact the chamber at (903) 594-6900.
