In the world of politics, just as in the world of business, everyone has their own rights and responsibilities. Some people think they have the right to just do what they want...As President Carter received a mixed response in a recent poll, I'm reminded that in the political world, just as in the business world, there is a right to do what you want, but also a responsibility to do what is right...People forget that they have a responsibility to do what is right, and just do what is wrong...In this
