Beckville council to look at fire station plans

By JEFF LACON

Panola Watchman Staff Writer

The Beckville City Council will meet Thursday, Aug. 11, for the regular meeting at 7 p.m. The council is expected to consider plans for the new fire station on the south side of town. The project has been under discussion for some time and is expected to be a major improvement for the community. The council will also consider other matters on the agenda.

Temper flare in district court

By MARTIN FOSTER

The Beckville News

Temper flared in the Childersville District Court on Tuesday, Aug. 9, when Terray Ratzlaff was sentenced to jail for a probation violation. Ratzlaff had failed to show up for a few court appearances and was ordered to serve three months in jail.

Dear Mr. Parker:

Your letter of 1/22/86 is in order. Most of your points are in order as an editorial is in order. I really must say that I have been really waiting for an editorial from you for a while now. You have written some good editorials in the past, but this one is really good. Thank you for your letter.

Sincerely,

Mr. Vic Parker

EDITORIAL

Coexistence

The controversy surrounding the issue of "free speech" has been ongoing for many years, and it seems like the debate is finally coming to an end. While the argument is not exactly new, the recent events have brought it to the forefront once again.

The problem, however, is not just about free speech. It is about how we can coexist in a society where everyone has the right to express their opinions, but also respect the rights of others.

While we agree that everyone has the right to a free press and that they should not be restricted in their ability to express their views, we also believe that there is a need for some form of regulation.

For the most part, the issues we are discussing are the same as those that have been raised in the past. Perhaps there are exceptions where some messages are not appropriate for all audiences, but in general, we believe that the freedom of speech is a fundamental right.

We must take exception to the statement, "We don't necessarily endorse the" message. When we don't necessarily endorse the message, there are many owners and justices who believe that the appeal is the same. In general, it is clear that the...

Lewis instills inner strength despite accident

After four years out of the ring, an Olympic bronze medalist is back on the mat in fine form.

Desert Lewis, 39, of Edmond, was once ranked the No. 1 wrestler in the world. He had a successful run on the national circuit, but his career was derailed when he suffered a serious neck injury during a match in 1994.

Lewis's return to the mat has been anything but easy. The injury left him with restricted mobility and a constant pain that made it difficult to perform even basic movements. But Lewis refused to let his injury define him, and he began a rigorous rehabilitation program to get back to the ring.

He sought out the latest in medical treatments, including stem cell therapy and cryotherapy, to help heal his body. He also worked with a team of physical therapists to develop a program that would help him regain his strength and flexibility.

"I was told by doctors that my ability to return to the mat was questionable," Lewis said. "But I refused to accept that. I knew I had the drive to make a comeback, and I was determined to get back to where I once was.""..."

Carthage tracksters show promise at Pine Tree meet

The Carthage High School tracksters showed potential at the Pine Tree meet. Notably, they were the only tracksters from the school to finish in the top three in any event. Despite the weather, the team showed determination and hard work, which bodes well for future meets.

Harkrider highlights Dixie with no-hitter

J. W. Smith's no-hitter against the Bee's 26-0 was a significant highlight of the Dixie League season. The pitcher's performance was exceptional, striking out six batters and allowing only two hits. This victory solidified the team's standing in the league.

Shelby-Panola downs Rotary

The Shelby-Panola team defeated the Rotary in a close contest, demonstrating their strong offensive and defensive capabilities. The game was competitive, with both teams showing excellent skills in their play.

PANOLA COUNTY Oil, Gas News

A meeting of the Oil and Gas Operators' Association was held recently in the Community Center. The meeting was well attended by members and guests. Discussions centered around the current status of oil production in the area and plans for future developments. The group agreed to continue working cooperatively to ensure the sustainable growth of the industry.

Civil Defense plan eyed

The Civil Defense plan for the county is currently under development. The plan aims to improve coordination between local and federal agencies in case of natural disasters or emergencies. Officials are working to ensure that all communities are well-prepared to respond effectively to any crisis that may occur.
