Watchman Opinion Forum

Howard eyes Panola DA

Dear Sir:

I am writing in response to the recent article published in the Panola Watchman regarding the potential appointment of a new district attorney for Panola County.

I agree with the sentiment expressed in the article that it is important for the county to have a district attorney who is not only qualified and experienced, but also has a strong understanding of the needs of the community. The selection process should be transparent and fair, with input from various stakeholders, including law enforcement agencies, community leaders, and citizens at large.

I believe that by involving the community in the selection process, we can ensure that the chosen candidate will have the support and trust of the community, which is crucial for effective leadership.

Sincerely,
Howard

Carthage friends appreciated

Dear Editor,

I wanted to express my gratitude to all the friends and neighbors who have supported us during this difficult time. Your kindness and generosity have been truly overwhelming.

When we face challenges, it is often the support of our community that makes all the difference. Your help has allowed us to continue on our journey and provided comfort in times of need.

Thank you for being such a wonderful support system. Your kindness will never be forgotten.

Sincerely,
Ed Howard

Chase 'em next door

By Jeff Louden

As you all know, I have a problem with raccoons in my yard. I have tried to discourage them with various methods, but they persist. I have also tried setting traps, but they always seem to find a way out.

Recently, I came across an article in a local magazine about using a homemade solution to deter raccoons. The solution involved mixing water, vinegar, and dish soap. The raccoons were reportedly repelled by the smell.

I decided to give it a try. I mixed the ingredients in a large bucket and placed it in a visible area near the raccoon entry points. Within a day, I noticed a significant decrease in the raccoon activity around my property. The smell seems to be working as intended.

I would like to share this solution with others who may be facing a similar issue. It is an effective and environmentally friendly method to keep raccoons at bay.

Sincerely,
Jeff Louden

We saluate you

There are days when I come across a story that touches my heart and reminds me of the resilience and strength of the human spirit. This is one such story.

A young child, faced with a life-threatening illness, is often the most inspiring example of courage and determination. These children teach us that even in the face of adversity, hope and joy can flourish.

I salute you, dear readers, for the love and support you extend to these little heroes. Your kindness and compassion make a world of difference.

Sincerely,
Mary Knight

Questions and Answers About Your Electric Service

7th in a Series

I want to know how much electricity I'm using... how do I read my electric meter?

Reading your electric meter is not as difficult as it might first appear. Meter readers from SWPDC read your electric meter every month and do so with extreme accuracy. In fact, we guarantee the job the meter reader is performing is performed to within one accuracy. Additionally, each meter reader is constantly monitored throughout the SWPDC system to ensure accuracy.

Your electric meter keeps a record of the number of kilowatt-hours of electricity you use. A thousand watts equal a kilowatt and a 100-watt lamp is on for one hour, your meter would record one kilowatt-hour. Your electric meter is read as of the first day of each month. The kilowatt-hour reading between last month's reading and this month's reading determines the amount of electricity you have used. To figure how much electricity you use, follow these steps:

1. Take a meter reading before you leave your residence in the morning.
2. Take a meter reading before you leave your residence in the evening.
3. Subtract one reading from the other to determine the amount of electricity used.

Learning more about how our American energy supply network functions is important because the decisions necessary to free us from our dependence on foreign energy are the operations of all types of energy in the U.S. is extremely important.

Q. Why is electricity so important?

A. Electricity is a vital part of our daily lives. It powers our homes, businesses, and industries. Electricity is used for lighting, heating, cooling, cooking, entertainment, and communication.

Bagley’s dairy farm is his life

Larry Bagley of Texas Dairy Farm in Beckville has spent the past 20 years dedicated to his business. Bagley is a hardworking man who has made a name for himself in the dairy industry. He is known for his commitment to quality and his dedication to the industry.

Story, Photos by Jeff Loudy

The dairy farm is the backbone of the business. The cows are well taken care of, and the milk is processed on the farm to ensure the best quality. The farm is located in the heart of the Texas dairy country, where the climate is ideal for raising cows.

The milk is pumped into large storage tanks to await being picked up. The cows are milked twice a day, and the milk is then processed into various products. The farm is a vital part of the local economy, providing jobs and contributing to the local community.
