"Aunt Josie"
No one is a stranger at her door

Her home is small and dark, her earnings are meager, but old Dame Father has a heart of gold. In past decades, she has housed many people, including her family of 15, that could not find a roof over their head. She has given and asks nothing in return. A fine story describing "Aunt Josie" is on page 10.

Stokes named citizen of month

Becky Stokes was selected by the faculty of Carthage High School as the Citizen of the Month for May in 1980. The award is sponsored by the Carthage News, and is given to an individual who has made a positive contribution to the community. In addition to her contributions to the community, Becky Stokes is a dedicated student and an active member of her church. She is a role model for her peers and serves as an inspiration to others. Becky Stokes is truly a deserving recipient of this prestigious honor. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Stokes, Sr., and has two younger sisters,18-year-old Stacy and 16-year-old Sammi. She is also the niece of Mrs. and Mr. Lee Scoones, Sr., and Mrs. and Mr. Lee Scoones, Jr., who are also well-known community leaders. Becky Stokes is a shining example of how one can make a positive impact on their community. She is a true asset to Carthage High School and her community. We are proud to recognize her for her contributions and achievements.
Dixie program going back on its word

Legion baseball deserves better

The Legion baseball program, which has been in existence since 1909, is facing a crisis. The Legion baseball league, which is run by the American Legion, has been struggling in recent years due to a decline in participation. The program is facing several challenges, including a lack of funding, a decline in interest, and an increase in the number of competing youth baseball programs.

Despite these challenges, the Legion baseball program is still the largest youth baseball league in the country. The league is made up of teams from across the country, and it provides a platform for young players to develop their skills and compete at a high level.

One of the main issues facing the Legion baseball program is a lack of funding. The league relies on donations and sponsorship to keep its programs running, but many local communities are cutting back on funding due to budget constraints. This has made it difficult for teams to afford the equipment and travel expenses needed to compete.

Another challenge facing the Legion baseball program is a decline in interest. Many young players are turning to other youth baseball programs, such as those run by Little League and the Pony League, which are perceived as being more fun and competitive.

Legion baseball officials are hoping to turn things around by making changes to the program. They are looking to attract more players by offering more opportunities for skill development and competition. They are also hoping to increase funding by reaching out to local communities and businesses for support.

Legion baseball officials are confident that they can turn things around and that the Legion baseball program will continue to be a vital part of the youth baseball landscape. They are committed to doing everything they can to ensure that the Legion baseball program remains strong and continues to provide young players with a top-notch baseball experience.

CISD growth solutions to be recommended

A February 10 News article stated that a three-year growth plan for CISD was being developed by a task force. The plan, which is expected to be presented to the public later this month, includes recommendations for how to accommodate the district's projected 80,000 students by the year 2000.

The task force, which consists of CISD administrators, local politicians, and community leaders, has been working on the plan since last fall. According to the article, the plan will include recommendations for new schools, additional space at existing schools, and the use of existing facilities in new ways.

The plan is expected to be presented to the CISD Board of Trustees at a special meeting on February 28. The public will have an opportunity to comment on the plan at a public hearing that will be held at the CISD Administration Building on March 1.

In addition to the growth plan, the district is also planning to renovate existing schools and to add new facilities to meet the needs of the growing student population. The district has already begun work on several projects, including the construction of a new high school in Frisco and the expansion of several elementary schools.

The district is also working to ensure that all students have access to quality education. CISD is investing in technology and teacher training to improve the quality of teaching and learning in the district.

Bank selects student board

The Texas Bank of Taylor has selected a Student Board of Directors.

The Board consists of nine students, four of whom are students at Taylor. The students were selected from the finalists of the applications that were submitted by all students eligible for the position.

The purpose of the Student Board of Directors is to advise the operations and financial decisions made by the bank, to represent the student body, and to provide a means for the students to have a say in the operation of the bank.

The Board meets once a month during the academic year. The meetings are open to the public and all students are welcome to attend.

Student Bank Directors will be chosen monthly with different students benefiting from the Board experience. Selections will be made based on personal characteristics, leadership qualities, and contributions to the student body.

For more information on the Student Board of Directors, please contact the bank at 1101 Main St, Taylor, TX 76574 or call 512-993-3600.

Gallaher lauds hospital following emergency

Just three weeks ago, Nancy Gallaher dramatically changed her mind in an ambulance on her way to the hospital. Mrs. Gallaher, 61, of Panola General, died after several days in the hospital and the family was in shock. Mrs. Gallaher, who was very sick, was taken to a neighboring hospital where she was pronounced dead.

Mrs. Gallaher's battle with cancer had been ongoing for several months. She was admitted to Panola General Hospital last week after experiencing severe pain. She was transferred to another hospital for further treatment, but her condition worsened.

The family was devastated by the loss, and the community has come together to support them. A GoFundMe campaign has been launched to help cover the costs of her final goodbye.

Deputies seize drug suspects

Panola County Sheriff's Deputies arrested four people and seized a large quantity of drugs during a raid at a home in the county.

The raid was conducted on Thursday morning in response to tips received by the sheriff's department. Investigators said they found several pounds of drugs, including marijuana and cocaine, as well as cash and weapons.

The suspects were taken into custody and charged with possession of controlled substances.

Industrial fest set Thursday

Robert Gold will speak in Carthage on Thursday at 6 p.m. at the Carthage Civic Center. Gold is a local business owner and community leader.

Gold will discuss the importance of local businesses and the future of the economy in Carthage.

The event is free and open to the public. For more information, contact the Carthage Chamber of Commerce at 903-693-6873.

Home water rates to rise

The Panola County Water District will be increasing water rates starting next month. The increase is due to rising costs for water treatment and delivery.

Residents are encouraged to conserve water during the upcoming dry season to avoid higher bills.

Revenue: County sales tax rebate shows healthy increase

Panola County has received a sales tax rebate from the state for the first time in years. The rebate is expected to provide much-needed funds for the county budget.

The rebate, which covers sales tax revenue from July to December 2022, amounts to over $1 million. The county had not received a rebate in the past due to low sales tax revenue.

Furries: Newsline

Furries are a group of people who identify with animals and feel a strong bond with them. The group has been growing in popularity and has caused controversy in some areas.

One furry, who goes by the name of Smokey Bear, said that he finds comfort in connecting with animals and has made many friends through his furry community.

The group has been criticized by some who believe that it promotes bestiality and animal rights violations. Others argue that it is a harmless and inclusive group.

The debate over furries continues as the community grows and gains visibility.
