Bentsen's 'Message to Washington'

By United Nations

During my time working under the United Nations, I have had the opportunity to see firsthand the importance of maintaining peace and security. It is crucial to have a strong and united approach in addressing global challenges. I believe that the United States must remain a key player in the international community and continue to work towards meaningful solutions.

Our country has a long history of service and dedication, and we must honor those who have sacrificed so much for our nation. Memorial Day is a time to remember the fallen heroes and recognize their selfless contributions.

In closing, I would like to extend my heartfelt gratitude to those who serve our country and keep us safe. Let us come together as a nation to honor those who have served and continue to protect our freedom.

Elderly worthy of respect

Letter to the Editor:

With so much in the news these days, I find myself reflecting on the importance of respecting our elderly population. We should cherish and honor the wisdom and experiences of our elderly neighbors.

Our seniors have spent a lifetime contributing to our community, and it is important to recognize their contributions. By showing respect and appreciation, we can make their remaining years fulfilling and enjoyable.

Strength For Living

By Terry Johnson

The Aspiration of a Dying Man

A cancer patient in a hospice ward is often asked, "What do you want?" And the answer is often, "Nothing." But for a man who has lived a life of service and dedication, the answer is a reminder of the essence of his life: "I want to live." And that's what he did. He continued to fight the disease that had claimed his body, but not his spirit. He fought for his family, for his country, and for his faith. And in the end, he found strength for living.

First Things First

By Henry Johnson

As many of us work towards the end of the year, let's focus on the things that matter most. Be grateful for what you have, and work towards achieving your goals. Set priorities, make plans, and stay positive. Remember, you can do it. It's never too late to start.

County fatality toll rises

By Carl Gershon, Associated Press

Two men were killed in a one-car accident on April 23 in the town of Farmington, Ohio. The fatality toll rose to 71 on April 23.

The names of the two men who died were not released. The accident occurred near the town of Farmington, about 15 miles south of Youngstown, Ohio.

In other car-related deaths, 11 people were killed in Ohio in the past 15 days. Of those 11, four died in an accident near Farmington, Ohio. The other seven were killed in Ohio County.

The Ohio Department of Health said Monday that 71 people were killed in Ohio between April 11 and April 23. The fatality toll was 65 during the same period last year.

A 15-year-old girl died in a car crash near Farmington, Ohio. She was killed in a head-on collision with a car that was traveling in the opposite direction.

In Ohio County, there were 11 people killed in car-related accidents in the past 15 days. Of those, five died in Farmington.

CISD board hires teachers, conducts business

CISD board members met in the small city of Farmington last Tuesday to discuss the hiring of teachers for the upcoming school year.

The board approved the hiring of 10 teachers, including four new hires. A total of 13 new hires were discussed, but the board decided to defer hiring two of them until the next meeting.

The board also discussed the budget for the upcoming school year. They voted to hire an additional 10 teachers, bringing the total number of new hires to 23.

The board meeting was held in the city of Farmington, Ohio, located about 15 miles south of Youngstown. The city has a population of about 7,000 people.

Police blotter

Carthage Police Department received the 911 call on April 23 from a woman who had been robbed in her home.

The woman said that she had just returned from a trip to the city of Carthage, located about 15 miles north of Youngstown. She had left her home for about an hour and was attacked by a man who entered her home.

The woman was able to escape unharmed, and the police were able to arrest the man shortly after the call was received.

A suspect was arrested and charged with robbery. The suspect, a 25-year-old man, was taken into custody and taken to the Police Station for questioning.

The police are still investigating the case and are seeking the public's assistance in identifying the suspect.

Special education reviewed

A review of special education programs in Ohio was conducted by the Ohio Department of Education. The review included an analysis of the special education services provided to students with disabilities.

In the review, the department found that approximately 15,000 students with disabilities receive special education services in Ohio. The review also found that the number of students receiving special education services has increased over the past 10 years.

The review recommended that the state increase funding for special education services and improve the quality of the services provided.
