Texas higher education reforms considered

The members haven't been surprised by the governor's move to reorganize the state's higher education system. They say the new structure will save money and improve efficiency.

Money. Quality. Access. These are the three main issues that will be considered. The new system will focus on making higher education more affordable and accessible to all Texans.

With the higher education reforms, the state will now have a single governing body for all state institutions of higher education. This will help to streamline operations and reduce duplication of efforts.

Legal. Inclusion of minority groups in the decision-making process will be emphasized. The new system will ensure that the voices of all Texans, including those from diverse backgrounds, are heard.

The reforms are expected to be implemented within the next two years. The state has allocated $100 million to support the transition.

Vote.

Corpus Christi

A group of community leaders met last week to discuss the impact of the new reforms on their city. They expressed concern about the potential loss of jobs and services.

Green Poole, a retired professor from the University of Texas at Austin, said the reforms could have a positive impact on the state's economy.

"This is an opportunity to look at the system and see how we can improve it," he said. "We need to make sure that the reforms are designed to help Texans, not just to benefit a few."

Carthage mauuls Cats in scrimmage

Carthage defeated Cotulla 20-14 in their scrimmage on Saturday. The Cats outscored the Bulldogs 14-0 in the first half, but the Dogs managed to take over in the second half. The Dogs scored 13 points in the third quarter while the Cats managed only seven. Carthage's defense proved to be too much for Cotulla to handle, as they held the Cats to just two points in the second half.

Yarborough elated by first scrimmage

By Bob Chappell

Yarborough entered the Yellow Jackets’ lineup after high school in 1985, but he was quickly overshadowed by his younger brother, John, who was a standout running back. White Oak’s coach, Gary Yarborough, named White Oak the No. 1 seed in the state playoffs last year, and the team finished with a 10-0 record. This year, the Yellow Jackets are playing as the No. 2 seed. They will face Westview in the first round of the state playoffs.

White Oak’s defense was led by senior David Fields. Fields was named first-team all-region as a defensive end.

By T.D. Chappell

Carthage junior varsity handled the pace of the scrimmage with three first downs and a touchdown in the first half.

The Carthage defense was led by senior Reggie Jones, who had a sack and a forced fumble. Jones decided to take the ball on sweep as front line holds tight.

Diabetes warning signs divided into two types

There are two major types of diabetes, Type 1 and Type 2. Type 1 diabetes accounts for about 5% of all diabetes cases and typically develops in childhood or adolescence. It is an autoimmune disease that occurs when the immune system attacks and destroys the pancreas cells that make insulin, a hormone that helps regulate blood sugar levels.

Type 2 diabetes accounts for about 90-95% of all diabetes cases and usually develops in adulthood. It occurs when the body becomes resistant to insulin or when the pancreas produces too little insulin. Risk factors for Type 2 diabetes include obesity, physical inactivity, family history, and certain conditions such as elevated triglycerides, high blood pressure, and high cholesterol.

Preventing diabetes involves lifestyle changes such as maintaining a healthy weight, regular physical activity, and a healthy diet. In addition, regular check-ups and monitoring of blood sugar levels can help detect diabetes early and prevent complications.

To learn more about diabetes prevention and management, visit the American Diabetes Association website at diabetes.org or contact your healthcare provider.
