Hospital names administrator

Two weeks after Portland General Hospital Administrator William Kelly announced his resignation, Admissions Hospital Systems, the hospital's management company, announced his replacement.

Douglas Summer, associated with AIS since March, was named as the hospital's new administrator. He succeeds Thomas Stengel, associated with AIS since March 1984, who had been the hospital's executive director.

Summer has been an executive director with Dean Winter Associates, Little Rock, for five years. He has also served as an active professional medical student and a member of the American Health and Financial Management Association.

The move is expected to provide a stronger focus on the hospital's financial operations and to improve patient care.

State Blue law repeal has little local appeal

Several store owners indicate that they will remain closed on Sunday, despite the law's repeal, and support the Treasure Blue Law, which was recently repealed by the Treasure State Legislature.

Proposed MHRM center plans altered

Robert Miller noted that reasons for the possible delays in the proposed MHRM center plans are due to the town's building permit process and the level of development. Miller said that the town has been working closely with the MHRM team to ensure that the project is completed as quickly as possible.

Residents of the town have been concerned about the proposed MHRM center plans for several years. At a recent public meeting, many residents expressed their concerns about the proposed location of the center and the impact it would have on the local community.

One resident, who wished to remain anonymous, said, "I think it's important that we have a facility to serve our community, but we need to be careful about where it's located. We don't want to see our town torn apart by this kind of development."
Equal Access to Justice process discussed

by San Leandro Barron

The Equal Access to Justice Act is a federal law that provides a means for individuals to obtain legal representation without paying directly for the services of a lawyer. The law allows individuals to seek a summary judgment, a temporary restraining order, or a preliminary injunction without paying attorney fees, as long as they can show that they have a reasonable basis for the claim.

Senator Howard addresses local educators

Senator Howard spoke to local educators about the importance of access to justice for all individuals. He emphasized the need for legal aid organizations to provide pro bono services to those who cannot afford to pay for legal representation. He also discussed the role of state and local government in ensuring that everyone has access to justice.

Welcome back to the not-so-roaring twenties

By Mary Leigh Best

Jerry Brown, Wally Reed, George Sperm, and Porras came to the Party of the Century. George and Dorothy Hunt of Long Branch were the hosts in their new home. The party began at 7 p.m. with a guest list of over 100. The Hunt's new home was decorated in the style of the 1920s. The guests enjoyed cocktails and hors d'oeuvres before the dinner was served.

The party continued into the night with live music and dancing. The night ended with a fireworks display over the lake. The next day, the guests were treated to a brunch in the new home.
