Voters to decide fate of 15 amendments

Texas voters will decide the fate of 15 amendments to the state constitution Tuesday when they cast ballots at the polls.

The amendments, to be voted on as a group, would affect a wide range of issues, including public assistance, education, health care and criminal justice.

The amendments would allow for the establishment of a new hospital district in the Panola County area.

The new district would be responsible for the provision of health care services in the county.

The district would be governed by a board of directors elected by the voters.

The district would be authorized to issue bonds to finance the construction of a hospital.

The district would be responsible for the operation and maintenance of the hospital.

The district would be funded through a combination of property taxes, hospital revenues and state grants.

Texas voters have the power to approve or reject the amendments.

The amendments would require a two-thirds vote for passage.

If approved, the amendments would take effect immediately.

If rejected, the amendments would not become law.

Panola County officials are urging voters to support the amendments as a means of improving health care services in the county.

They argue that the amendments will provide the necessary funding to build and operate a new hospital.

The new hospital would provide much-needed medical services to the residents of Panola County.

The benefits of the amendments would be realized for years to come.

The amendments would ensure that the people of Panola County have access to high-quality health care services.

The amendments would provide a safer, healthier community for all.

Panola County officials urge voters to cast their ballots on Tuesday and support the amendments.

The amendments will be on the ballot in the Panola County area.

Backside of hood ornament stirs the mind

By Leslie Williams

T-Wheeler

When someone is interested in the details of a hood ornament, you might think they're looking for something unique. But what about when someone is interested in the mind behind the ornament? That's where Backside of Hood Ornament comes into play. They specialize in unveiling the stories behind the ornaments, taking their audience on a journey of discovery and wonder.

The ornaments themselves can be made of different materials, such as metal or plastic, and can have a variety of shapes and designs. They may also hold different meanings or histories, depending on the time and place they were created. Backside of Hood Ornament aims to explore these stories, offering a glimpse into the world of these tiny artistic objects.

The website offers a range of products, from books and prints to sculptures and jewellery, all featuring the unique designs of hood ornaments. Whether you're a fan of classic cars or simply interested in the world of art, Backside of Hood Ornament has something for you.

Visitors can explore the collection, learning about the history and significance of each ornament. They can also purchase products online, with options for shipping to addresses worldwide. Backside of Hood Ornament is dedicated to sharing the beauty and intrigue of these little works of art with a global audience.

So if you're curious about the mind behind the ornament, or just interested in the art itself, Backside of Hood Ornament is the place to be. Check out their website today and discover the stories behind the ornaments in a whole new way.

BHS faces long odds

Jackets get Cats for homecoming

The Beckville Bulldogs are facing long odds against the Carthage Comets in a homecoming showdown at the Beckville Eagles Nest.

The Comets are the defending state champions from the previous season and are ranked No. 1 in the state. The Bulldogs, on the other hand, are not ranked and have struggled through the season so far.

The game is expected to be a tough one for the Bulldogs, but they are determined to put up a good fight.

The Beckville defense will have to stop the Carthage offense, which is led by quarterback Mike Martin and running back John Davis. The Bulldogs will rely on their strong defense to keep the Comets from scoring.

The Carthage offense, on the other hand, will have to adjust to the tough defense of the Bulldogs, led by linebacker Jaylon Smith and defensive lineman Ethan Thompson.

This game is crucial for both teams, with the winner taking a step closer to securing a spot in the playoffs.

Dogs up to 16th

Tigers new No. 1

The Deming Tigers have moved up to No. 1 in the state rankings, as they have won their last three games.

The Tigers have been impressive on both offense and defense, as they have averaged 42 points per game and allowed only 14 points per game.

The Bulldogs, on the other hand, have struggled through the season so far, but they are not giving up hope. They believe they can pull off the upset and make a statement against the Tigers.

The game is expected to be a tough one, but the Bulldogs are determined to put up a good fight and show that they are not just a one-hit wonder.

County tax notices mailed, may hold some surprises

The shocking percentage of homes by a tax notice to homeowners in the county, a figure nearly double that of last year, has had a significant impact on homeowners, who will see their property taxes go up. The increase in taxes is due to the increased value of homes in the county.

The handset for county tax notices is expected to be sent out this week. Homeowners who have received a tax notice should be aware of the increase in taxes and be prepared to pay them.

State springs surprise on taxpayers

By Barry Moore

This past week, the surprise of the year occurred at the state springs. As the state made its usual announcement about the public's ability to enjoy the springs, the public was shocked to learn that the state would be charging a fee for entry into the springs. The fee, which is $5 per vehicle, is the first time such a fee has been charged. It is expected to raise $1 million per year.

Property owners who use state lands have expressed their surprise at the new fee. They were not aware of the fee and were shocked that it would be charged. Some have expressed concern that the fee will be passed on to them by their tenants.
