Voting process was changed to accommodate the public

By Mr. A. Williams

Secretary of State

New provisions for the next election are designed to improve the voting process. The provisions are intended to correct various problems encountered in past elections. The new provisions include:

1. Expansion of the ballot box: The number of ballot boxes is increased to ensure that every voter has a ballot. This change is expected to reduce the number of voters waiting in line.

2. Implementation of electronic voting: Electronic voting machines are introduced to streamline the voting process. These machines are expected to reduce the time required for voting and improve the accuracy of the results.

3. Enhanced security measures: Security measures are strengthened to prevent voter fraud. This includes the use of secure voting booths and the implementation of biometric data verification.

4. Extension of voting hours: Voting hours are extended to accommodate voters who may not be able to vote during regular hours.

5. Provision for overseas voters: Overseas voters are allowed to vote in the election, ensuring that every citizen has the opportunity to participate.

These changes are expected to improve the voting process and increase voter turnout. The Secretary of State encourages all citizens to participate in the election and utilize the new provisions to make their voices heard.

"I wanted to mention something that happened the other day when I was on a case. I encountered a man who seemed to be in distress. He was crying and appeared to be very upset. I asked him what was wrong, and he told me that he had been served with an arrest warrant. He said he had no idea what the warrant was for, and he was very worried. I took the time to explain the situation to him and assured him that everything would be okay. I also referred him to a legal aid organization that could help him understand his rights. I believe it's important to always treat people with respect and kindness, and I'm glad I was able to help this man."
Harris Harvest Festival held

By Mrs. Diane Wynn
Saturday, Oct. 21 was a lovely, lovely day. The sun was shining and the air was filled with the scent of the outdoors. It was a perfect day to celebrate at the Harris Chapel Community Center in preparation for the Harris Harvest Festival.

The festival, which has been a tradition in the community for many years, is organized by committee and volunteers.

Volunteers were busy setting up the tents and booths, each filled with unique and delicious foods. The aroma of pumpkin pies, apple cider, and freshly baked bread filled the air, making it hard to decide what to try first.

The festival also featured a variety of entertainment, including live music and games for all ages. Attendees enjoyed wandering through the booths, trying new foods, and participating in the various activities.

The festival concluded with a beautiful sunset, casting a warm glow over the entire event. It was a wonderful day filled with delicious food, fun, and community spirit.

Northwestern Women’s Hospital

Northwestern Women’s Hospital is now doing routine pelvic exams for women. The exam is performed by a nurse under the supervision of a doctor. The exams are done on a voluntary basis and are designed to screen for cervical and breast cancer.

The exams are typically performed on a monthly or quarterly basis, depending on the individual’s health history. The hospital recommends that women begin having routine pelvic exams at age 21 or when they first become sexually active, whichever comes first.

In recent years, there has been a significant increase in the incidence of cervical cancer, making routine screening more important than ever. The exam is quick and painless, and it is a simple way to detect potential health problems early on.

ABWA holds Halloween chili and pie supper

The Ft. Worth Chapter of the American Business Women's Association (ABWA) held its annual Chili and Pie Supper at the home of a member last night. The event was annouced by President Mabel Hackett and was attended by many members. The chili was served in small bowls and was very popular. The pies were displayed on a table in the center of the room and were very attractive. The event also included a silent auction with many donations from local businesses.

Halloween party slated

Ft. Worth County Comptroller will serve as a judge for the event. Thursday, Oct. 30, 10 p.m. in the Executive Conference Room. The event will be open to the public and there will be refreshments provided.

Mortgage lenders urged to participate in program

The Federal Housing Administration (FHA) has announced a new program to help mortgage lenders and their customers. Under the program, mortgage lenders will be encouraged to offer FHA-insured mortgages to eligible borrowers. The program is designed to help increase home ownership among low-income families.

Local Wal-Mart holds annual fashion show

Circling vendors and performers for members of the audience were on display outside the store. Thursday night during the annual Halloween celebration, a fashion show was held at the store. The show featured a variety of clothing, including Halloween-themed outfits for both men and women.

PANOLA PEOPLE

Her name may not be Marion but she’s our librarian

By Sue Maye

Manny Moore/Times-Intelligencer

Her name may not be Marion, but she’s our librarian. By just a few of the people who frequented the Panola County Library, and who make the library a focal point of their regular activities. She’s not really a librarian, but she’s the face of the library.

When people come in and see her, they usually have a friendly smile on their face. They usually say, "Hi, how are you doing?" and then they talk about their day. And they always end with, "Bye, see you later!"

When people leave, they usually give her a smile and say, "Have a great day!" And she always replies, "You too!"

The people who come here are usually regulars. They come in to use the library, and they like to see her. And she likes to see them too.

She’s been working here for many years, and she’s become a part of the library family. She’s always there to help people, and she always has a smile on her face. And she always makes people feel welcome.

She’s a great librarian, and she’s a great friend. And she’s a great part of our community. She’s been here for many years, and she’s been a part of our community for many years. And she’s always going to be a part of our community.

She’s a great librarian, and she’s a great friend. And she’s a great part of our community. She’s been here for many years, and she’s been a part of our community for many years. And she’s always going to be a part of our community.

She’s a great librarian, and she’s a great friend. And she’s a great part of our community. She’s been here for many years, and she’s been a part of our community for many years. And she’s always going to be a part of our community.

Women's Rights

Women's rights movement gained momentum during the 19th century. Angeline de la Rive was a prominent figure in the movement. She was involved in organizing Women's Rights Conventions.

The event started with a speech by Angeline de la Rive, followed by a panel discussion on the history of women's rights. The panelists included historians and activists who shared their insights on the movement.

The event concluded with a call to action, encouraging everyone to continue fighting for women's rights.

Area traffic patterns to change

Traffic patterns in Carthage will take on a new look soon when the city council approves a new traffic plan that divisional 7th Street. The Carthage City Council will approve a recommendation from the Texas Department of Transportation that new traffic patterns be implemented for the city.

With the new pattern, Market St. will become two 2-lane roads with a 12-foot center turn lane. The streets will have new traffic lights, which will be turned on at 10 a.m. and 10 p.m. daily.

The new pattern will be in effect for at least 6 months, and the city council has approved a budget to cover any costs associated with the change. The city will also have a team of traffic engineers to monitor the new pattern and make any necessary adjustments.
