Christmas hits wrong

When someone says that Christmas is "over" it seems there is a feeling that the season has ended. In reality, the true spirit of Christmas is not about the season, but about the love and goodwill that is expressed during this time of year. It is a time to come together as a family and enjoy each other's company.

Chick’s Country

By Chuck Butterfly

Chick was born in a barn near New York City, but she’s not your stereotypical cow. Chick is a Jersey cow, and she loves the city. She spend her days walking around in central park, and her nights sleeping under the stars in Central Park. She is a very unique cow, and is a popular attraction in the city. She has been featured on several television shows and is even the subject of a children’s book. Chick was rescued by a group of animal lovers who saw her in a small town and knew she belonged in the city. She is a symbol of hope and freedom, and is a reminder that even the most unexpected places can be home.

Illness concerns parents

Healthcare providers have seen an increase in COVID-19 cases recently, and parents are becoming increasingly concerned about their children’s health. The pandemic has brought many changes to our daily lives, and parents are concerned about the safety of their children, especially as schools reopen.

The World Health Organization (WHO) has warned that the COVID-19 pandemic is far from over, and parents are urged to take necessary precautions to protect their children. These include wearing masks, washing hands regularly, and avoiding crowded places.

Despite the challenges, parents are determined to keep their children healthy and safe, and are monitoring their children’s health closely. They are also encouraging their children to stay active and maintain a healthy lifestyle.

Panola farmers voting

Panola County farmers will vote on a proposal to establish a new agricultural district in the county. The proposal aims to create a more sustainable and environmentally friendly farming community.

The farmers are concerned about the impact of climate change on their crops and are looking for ways to reduce their carbon footprint. The new agricultural district will focus on sustainable practices, such as using solar power and reducing chemical use.

The farmers have been consulting with experts and are excited about the potential impact of the new district. They hope that it will help them to become more resilient in the face of future challenges.

Report shows 165 crowded CISD classes

The annual performance report for Conroe Independent School District, which covers the 1983-1984 school year, shows overcrowded classes at two schools. Descriptions and enrollment data for the two schools are as follows:

- Kenny Elementary School
  - Grades K-2: 165 students
  - Grades 3-5: 160 students

Overcrowding at the schools is due to the district's rapid student growth. The report, which was released by the CISD, states that the district is facing a $20.5 million budget deficit for the 1984-1985 school year due to rising costs and declining enrollment. The district is currently working on a plan to address the overcrowding and budget deficit issues.
